

Q Association - Sdružení Q

The title of the summer 2019 Kroměříž exhibition: "Quod tempus, qui locus - What time, which place?" follows the legacy of the founding personalities of the Q Association. The idea of establishing an interdisciplinary art association has been dealt with by painter Bohdan Lacina and several other professional colleagues since 1964.

The grouping was then formed in 2 or 3 stages between October 1968 and March 1969. Among the founding members were mainly visual artists, besides Bohdan Lacina, for example Marie Filippovová, Jan Rajlich st., Vilém Reichmann and Miroslav Šimorda. Representatives of other artistic fields soon joined. The writer and poet Ludvík Kundera gave the association a name in which the letter Q evokes Latin interrogative pronouns and, in a broader sense, the whole civilization circuit, which for many centuries used the Latin language to unite a summary of all the essential knowledge.

With the onset of political „abnormalization“ in the beginning of Seventies, Q Association was abolished, but some members continued to meet in private and developed informal activities. This has maintained a coherent, collegial spirit that has helped to re-establish official activity in 1989. To date, Q Association is a very inspiring group of writers, theatre artists, playwrights, photographers, filmmakers, architects, musicians and visual artists.
